Out-of-province loophole thwarts ticket enforcement across city

KRISTA SYLVESTER
krista.sylvester@metronews.ca

Calgarian Hannah Smith doesn't pay her parking tickets because she doesn't technically have to, as she's discovered through a little-known loophole.

Smith (not her real last name) has her vehicle registered in Quebec, where she lives part-time. When she receives Alberta parking tickets, she doesn't pay them.

"I end up not having to pay them when I register my car there, because there are no rules that force you to like if I were to register my car here," she said, adding she has avoided six tickets.

And the Calgary Parking Authority's Dale Fraser says she's not the only one.

According to the CPA, about 95 per cent of 294,000 tickets issued in 2009 were paid, which left 12,635 tickets unpaid either due to a person being deceased or living out of province. Unpaid tickets amounted to $531,022 in 2009, for which the CPA has to budget.

"Sometimes people are visiting and receive a ticket but don't live here, so the tickets are not enforceable when they register their vehicle," Fraser said.

"There is no interprovincial law, but it's something we would like to see."

Fraser said if motorists owe outstanding fees and continue to park, they can be towed and have to pay the fines at the impound lot to get their car back.

Mayoral candidate Ald. Ric McIver said he was unaware of the rules and expressed interest in future options to improve enforcement. "I think it would definitely be worth a cup of coffee with the province to see how we can enforce it," he said.

Sheryl Crow performs at Lilith 2010 yesterday at McMahon Stadium. Calgary was the first stop for the all-women touring music festival, which heads to Edmonton today.

Lilith returns with Calgary concert

MUSIC After months of announcements, hype and cancelled shows, Lilith finally returned to the North American summer festival circuit with its inaugural show in Calgary yesterday.

With headliners Sheryl Crow, Erykah Badu, Colby Caillet and, of course, Sarah McLachlan, Calgarians flocked by the thousands to celebrate women in music.

But after paying upwards of $250, crowds were greeted by general disorganization and long lines for food and drinks.

"It is not a very friendly setup and isn't conducive of being social," said concert-goer Beth Rilay, "but the music is awesome."

New artists like Ash Koley and Kate Morgan were also featured. Winnipeg native Sierra Noble won the Lilith Local Talent Search and was showcased on the Village Stage. She described the experienced as "unreal and amazing."

The first of the series in 13 years, the concert will leave a permanent mark on the city, as one dollar from every ticket to yesterday's show went to the Woman's Shelter of Calgary. McLachlan presented a cheque for $9,000 to the organization during a pre-concert press conference.

Lilith will continue this week with shows in Edmonton and Vancouver.

River rescues up early this year: Officials

WATERS The number of river-water rescues is already higher than average this year, say city officials who are reminding Calgarians to think twice before entering aggressive waters.

Bylaw boss Bill Bruce said there have been more than seven water rescues already this year, a number he considers high since the weather's only been hot recently.

"It's been pretty busy and people are out there, but they seem to be listening and complying more with life-jackets," Bruce said.

But fire battalion Chief John Meilleur said considering there were three more rescues yesterday — including a baby who toppled into the water — officials wish rafters would wait until the rivers are calmer.

"We would prefer if they stayed away from the banks and rivers altogether, but people are going out anyways," he said.

Thirteen tickets were handed out as of Saturday, as well as hundreds of warnings over the entire weekend during a blitz.

Kassam sets sights on mayoral seat

Another Calgarian is throwing his hat into the mayoral race today. Alnoor Kassam is holding a press conference this morning to announce his bid and why he wants to "take back Calgary." Response times need fix: Ald.

Improving firefighters' results said to be priority, despite budget

KATIE TURNER

Shortcomings revealed in an annual report released by the city's fire department will be fixed despite upcoming budget cuts, according to one alderman.

The report, slated to be presented to the city's community and protective services committee on Wednesday, showed that in 2009, the goal of a seven-minute response time was only met 58.6 per cent of the time.

Despite the $60-million shortfall in the city's budget, Ald. Ric McIver said these issues are a priority.

"I think that we need to make sure that the fire department's budget is managed and kept whole so that we can get those response times to where they should be," said Ald. Ric McIver.

Shortfalls in the city's fire department budget will get fixed, says a city alderman. And Calgary fire Chief Bruce Burrell said the department is still looking for areas to pare back.

Fire Chief Bruce Burrell told Metro earlier this week that while he has yet to find out a definite figure, they have been looking for areas of the budget to trim.

"The impact is obviously going to affect growth and potentially may impact the opening of some of the new stations in the future," he said. "We don't have an absolute picture of what that's going to look like at the moment."

While Burrell said he was notified over two weeks ago that cuts were forthcoming, McIver said he is working to ensure emergency response times don't drop any further.

"It's urgent, it's necessary and we'll do it. If I have anything to do with it, we'll deal with that."

Cyclists take 'emotional' ride for cancer fight

FUNDRAISER Cancer survivors and fighters rallied with their friends and families in the Ride to Conquer Cancer this past weekend.

Biking 200 kilometres, participants raised funds to support cancer research in Alberta.

Candice Barchard was one of the many riders with a yellow flag, signalling cancer survivors and current cancer fighters, waving from the back of her bike. She was diagnosed with stage three metastatic melanoma in 2006 and has been fighting it since.

"The ride is an emotional experience," said Barchard. "Everybody wants to hear your story and share theirs."

Along for the ride were her families and friends.

"The ride is an emotional experience, Everybody wants to hear your story and share theirs."
Candice Barchard, cancer fighter

Those who didn't bike volunteered for the event. "It's an amazing group, everyone is so supportive," said Barchard.

Beyond raising funds for cancer research, Barchard hopes her ride will spread the message about how skin cancer can happen to anyone, at anytime.

"Through research and finding a cure, we hope no one will have to experience cancer again," she said.

Cancer fighter Candice Barchard, far right, and her team, The Melanoma Crushers, raised more than $20,000 in the Ride to Conquer Cancer. Riders finished up their race at Spruce Meadows yesterday.

In only its second year, the Ride to Conquer Cancer involved more than 1,800 participants who raised $7.3 million for the Alberta Cancer Foundation.

"We are so proud of each and every one of them," said Linda Mickelson, CEO, Alberta Cancer Foundation.

News in brief

ALTERCATION Calgary police said it appears a 65-year-old man beaten with a skateboard may have instigated a fight with a man and woman after having too much to drink. Investigators say the seriously injured man was found on a downtown street after a large crowd had gathered and disrupted traffic just before 10 p.m. Saturday. Police now say it appears that the older man may have pushed a 17-year-old girl to the ground and she defended herself. He was taken to hospital and is in stable condition. A man and woman were taken into custody at the scene of the incident but no charges have been laid.

POLITICS Alberta's surging right-of-centre Wildrose Alliance Party moved closer to the political centre Saturday, but party leader Danielle Smith denied they're abandoning principles because they sniff power in a province where the Tories have ruled for decades. "You could only go as far as the public is willing to go," said Smith as the party wrapped up its annual convention. "You can't just bulldoze ahead with ideas that don't have popular support, and I think what you're seeing in the (meeting) room is there's some recognition of that."

WRECK Fatigue may have caused a collision that sent a 57-year-old woman to hospital in life-threatening condition, according to police. The crash happened around 8 a.m. It's believed the woman may have run a red light at the intersection of Barlow Trail and 27th Avenue N.E. when she was struck by another vehicle. The male driver of the other vehicle was not injured.

Police clamp down after Saturday siege

G20 Summit

Police cracked down hard on G20 dissent yesterday in the wake of violent protests that saw downtown Toronto transformed into part police state, part riot zone over the weekend.

Scenes of unopposed militants using so-called Black Bloc tactics to wreak havoc along trendy Queen Street West on Saturday were replaced yesterday by swift and aggressive police tactics to shut down protests.

After a day of violence that gripped the city and resulted in more than 600 arrests, police were left with little choice but to switch gears, said a security expert.

Police arrested people one-by-one after hemming in a crowd on all four sides in a downtown intersection. Passersby and several journalists were hemmed in as well.

Dozens were arrested, and spent hours in the rain before being loaded onto a city bus. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oil spill dodges storm?

A tropical depression slamming into parts of Mexico isn't taking aim at the massive Gulf oil spill — for now — though any system can quickly change course and send cleanup efforts grinding to a halt.

The logistics of containing the oil spewing into the Gulf of Mexico are mind-boggling even in ideal conditions. Things become even more complicated with the approach of a storm system like Alex, which has pelted Belize, northern Guatemala and Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula with heavy rain.

Any system with winds over 74 km/h could force BP PLC to abandon efforts to contain the flow for up to two weeks and delay the drilling of two relief wells that are the best hope of stopping it, Coast Guard Adm. Thad Allen said Saturday, shortly after Alex became the first tropical storm of the Atlantic hurricane season. It has since weakened to a tropical depression.

However, forecasters say Alex will cross over the Yucatan Peninsula back into the Gulf, where the warm waters could fuel it up to hurricane strength.

It's projected to hit Mexico again south of Texas and miss the spill site, but officials are watching closely.

Nearly 39,000 people and more than 6,000 boats are working on the cleanup.

Winds were at 95 km/h when the storm made landfall but had decreased to 55 km/h by yesterday morning.

Hybrids gaining steam

InTransit
Adrienne Beattie
metronews.ca/intransit

It looks like Calgary Transit is toying with the idea of adding a hybrid bus to its fleet. The idea, while it would cut emissions and reduce fuel costs, has been tossed around a few times before though, so I'm not getting my hopes up.

Calgary Transit spokesman Ron Collins recently said a contract has been signed with Nova Bus, a North American leader in hybrid transit vehicles. He said he's hopeful a hybrid bus could be bought this year to test against our climate and infrastructure, but he said no commitments have been made.

Of course, we heard a similar sentiment in May 2008, when Banff put four bio-diesel electric buses into service, thus making its entire fleet hybrid. That was two years ago and Ron Collins said Calgary would likely have one hybrid by 2009, and would be closely watching the technology.

Similarly, in May 2004, the media were invited to Calgary Transit's Spring Gardens garage to check out a hybrid bus that was being tested out.

I wonder if we've been sitting on the fence long enough? From what I can tell, the work has now been done for us. Others have been testing the technology and it seems like we're well positioned to take advantage of their findings and take the plunge.

For example, in October 2008, the Toronto Transit Commission became so unhappy with its hybrid buses that transit managers tried to get out of a contract to purchase an additional 250 hybrid electric-diesel buses. It seems the lead-acid batteries only lasted about 18 months instead of the promised five years, and the fleet only gained a 10 per cent improvement in fuel efficiency.

Because of this, when Ottawa went to purchase 202 hybrid buses that year, the transit authority decided to go with lithium-ion batteries instead. So noted — lead-acid batteries not good.

Edmonton Transit has done some testing on the subject, too, with an eight-month evaluation of hybrid buses in 2008 showing buses could garner fuel savings of up to 20 per cent and are most efficient on routes with many stops. The pilot was a success, concluding with a recommendation to the city to buy 47 hybrid buses.

Banff has been quite satisfied with its purchases as well.

Here's hoping Calgary Transit will soon jump aboard the hybrid bus bandwagon as other Canadian cities with similar climates have already successfully done.

Is this what democracy really looks like?

Peter McCartney

"This is what democracy looks like," chanted peaceful protesters, including myself, advocating a plethora of social issues on our march from Queen's Park to Queen and Spadina streets in Toronto during Saturday's start of the G20 meetings.

Sure enough, the so-called Black Bloc soon materialized; a menacing homogenous group of militants with the intent of doing as much damage as possible to draw police away from the infamous "gate."

They split from the main group once we arrived at a standoff with police and unleashed well-orchestrated mayhem upon corporate Toronto.

Meanwhile, Helter Skelter accompanied the tension as the main group of protesters had a unit of police surrounded around a smashed police cruiser.

RYAN REMIORZ/THE CANADIAN PRESS

A protester kicks a burning police car Saturday during an anti-G20 demonstration in Toronto.

Although police remained stoic and calm throughout, you could see a defined fear in their faces, followed by relief when another four units trickled in as backup.

After finally forcing the protesters back down Queen Street, riot police backed off at Peter Street, and as the main protest backtracked towards the financial district we discovered the anarchists' work.

Nearly every Starbucks and bank we passed sported broken windows and spray-painted walls, with security staff watching us intensely from inside, like we were an exhibit at the zoo.

It's an eerie feeling peering into a destroyed Starbucks where mere hours before a smiling barista cheerfully handed you a coffee.

G20 Summit

Police and protesters spent the next few hours in an intersection-by-intersection power struggle to the sound of taunting chants and the authoritative strike of batons on shields in unison.

All while the Black Bloc tore through Yonge Street, smashing nearly every corporate business as store owners watched in horror.

And when they were finished, a simple wardrobe change let them rejoin the crowd undetected, while Torontonians were left to pick up the pieces, wondering if this really was what democracy is supposed to look like.

Peter McCartney, a native Calgarian, is an intern with Metro Calgary and is heading into his second year at Carleton University's journalism program.

Worth mentioning

Beauty, or ugliness, is in the eye of the beholder

A chihuahua's oddly curved back and legs and closed-up left eye earned the four-year-old rescue dog top honours at the World's Ugliest Dog contest at a Northern California fair Friday.

Sporting a grey, brown and black coat, Princess Abby Francis beat a rough-looking slate of candidates for the prize, including Pabst, a teeth-bearing boxer mix who won last year.

Princess Abby shivered in the cool breeze after her win while nestled in the arms of her owner, Kathleen Francis, who received a $1,000 cheque at the 22nd annual contest held at the Sonoma-Marin Fair in Petaluma.

The victory was a surprise to Francis.

"I don't think she's ugly at all," she said. "I think she's the most beautiful dog."

Francis says she adopted Princess Abby from her veterinarian about five months ago. This was the dog's first such contest since she was found running through the street.

Paid to surf web?

CRA employees waste work time: Reports

Some Canada Revenue Agency workers have been spending far too much time browsing the Internet and sending offensive emails — and not enough time collecting taxes.

Internal reports show an average of 85 employees a year are disciplined for wasting their work days surfing the web, setting up sports pools, sending chain letters, promoting "illegal substances," sharing offensive cartoons and running pyramid schemes.

"[One] employee browsed the Internet an average of three hours and 32 minutes per day," says one investigation report from last July, or about half the shift.

Managers at the Canada Revenue Agency were lenient in their undisclosed discipline of the employee because of his "good performance" — even though it was a second offence, says the report. A year earlier, the same worker had been caught browsing the Internet an average of two hours and 25 minutes each day.

Another worker, found to be web-surfing 83 minutes a day on average, was also treated leniently due to his "remorsefulness."

Last August, investigators recorded more than 84 hours of personal Internet cruising over 58 work days for one worker, or almost 90 minutes a day.

The reports also show hundreds of "unacceptable" emails in workers' accounts, though the precise content is never described.

These and other records outlining forbidden cyberbehaviour at the Canada Revenue Agency were obtained under the Access to Information Act.

Air Canada adds more China flights

TRAVEL Air Canada expects to bring groups of Chinese tourists to Canada for leisure travel as the carrier doubles capacity to serve routes between Toronto and China this fall.

The airline said Friday that China's designation of Canada as an approved travel destination — opening the door to expanded air travel between the two countries — comes after many years of negotiations.

"This opens up a whole new market that we never had before," said Duncan Dee, CEO at Air Canada. "This basically facilitates the travel of Chinese tourists to Canada."

Air Canada said it will introduce daily flights between its main hub in Toronto and three major Chinese cities (Shanghai, Beijing and Hong Kong) in addition to existing year-round flights the between Vancouver and those destinations.

METRO WORLD NEWS

Canada has yet to embrace the benefit of high-speed trains.

An uncertain future

Sustainability study shows quality of life at risk

BEN KNIGHT
for Metro Canada

Canadians living in big cities enjoy a high quality of life, but a new report suggests that may change if key sustainability issues are not quickly and effectively addressed.

The Sustainable Cities Challenge in Canada — conducted by GlobeScan and commissioned by Siemens Canada and the David Suzuki Foundation — polled experts across the nation on what the problems are, and how they should be rectified.

Here are some of the key findings:

TRANSPORTATION

What's the problem?

The report says decision making is fragmented, and projects can be deferred — or even dropped — during election years.

What's the solution?

"We see that there are bigger cities lacking good rail-based solutions, for example, between airports and city centres," says Roland Aurich, president and CEO of Siemens Canada Ltd.

"We have a long debate in Canada about high-speed rail. There is not yet a decision in that area, and we also see a lot of discussion about whether you should rely on bus lines or install light-rail traffic solutions. Again, the decision power is not in place. We do understand that these decisions need to be carefully based, but we also need to create a process where we do now take decisions needed for the future."

Water infrastructure is crumbling and needs desperate repair.

The survey says...

- Experts in Alberta see Urban sprawl as the most important sustainability issues facing Canadian cities. Poverty topped housing and immigration as the key social concern. Financing and diversification emerged as the major economic issues across Alberta. The province's biggest infrastructure concern is funding, due to significant budget deficits. Calgary is also planning large new projects to address its public transit concerns.

WATER QUALITY

What's the problem?

Infrastructure is old and crumbling, a problem that will only worsen if comprehensive rebuilding and expansion not undertaken.

What's the solution?

"First of all, we need to make sure we invest in our aging infrastructure," Aurich notes.

"In some cases, we see that the clear water which is produced doesn't come to the consumer. A portion gets lost in leakage. The second issue is to make sure that we also maintain and create capacity and quality — in a demanding way, and in an efficient way."

URBAN SPRAWL

What's the problem?

Cities expand to cover huge amounts of new land, but land-use and infrastructure concerns are not always properly addressed.

What's the solution?

"Our theory — and we see this happening more and more in practice — is that you have an environmental view of sustainable solutions, you install transportation systems, you have a good social security system in the city, people enjoy that life," says Aurich.

"That brings effectiveness to the area, avoiding the negative effects of sprawl, and better defining where new lands should be allocated."

Sports in brief

GRAND PRIX Red Bull driver Sebastian Vettel won the European Grand Prix yesterday, dominating the race from the pole position while teammate Mark Webber survived a spectacular crash. It was Vettel's second win of the season. He completed the 57 laps of the Valencia street circuit ahead of McLaren's Lewis Hamilton in second.

UMPIRE Another umpire has accepted responsibility for a blown call that went against the Detroit Tigers. Gary Cederstrom acknowledged he erred when he called a third strike on Johnny Damon that ended the Atlanta Braves' 4-3 win over the Tigers Saturday night with the bases loaded.

PGA Bubba Watson won for the first time on the PGA Tour, coming from six shots down to win the Travelers Championship in a three-way playoff. Watson sunk a 3-foot par putt on the second playoff hole to beat Scott Verplank and Ryder Cup captain Corey Pavin, after they all finished at 14-under par.

Familiar faces gone at some positions for CFL club

Calgary Stampeder fans must get used to new faces in positions where they'd seen the same players for years.

Veteran offensive lineman Jeff Pilon, punt-returner Marcus Howell and receiver Brett Ralph have retired. Kicker Sandro DeAngelis signed with Hamilton and receiver Jeremaine Copeland was traded to Toronto in the off-season.

Unfamiliar names such as Edwin Harrison, Deon Murphy, Ron Kelly, P.K. Sam and Rob Maver have taken their places, yet head coach and general manager John Hufnagel feels his team carries the right balance of experience and youth.

"We have a good nucleus of veterans and good young players to push the veterans," he says. "Obviously we have some young players that need to step up and be able to contribute to us winning football games.

"I'm pleased with the team we will put on the field July 1."

The Stampeders host the Toronto Argonauts in their home-opener Thursday (TSN, 8 p.m.) and then don't play another game for nine days in an erratic schedule to open the 2010 season.

JEFF MCINTOSH/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Calgary Stampeders quarterback Henry Burris watches his throw during pre-season CFL action against the Saskatchewan Roughriders in Calgary last week.

Calgary plays games in Hamilton and Toronto over a five-day span starting July 10, meaning the team will remain on the road with little time to prepare for the second game.

The 2008 Grey Cup champions went 10-7-1 last season and lost 27-17 to Saskatchewan in the West final.

Training camp was marked by an inordinate number of players retiring, particularly on the offensive line.

Offensive lineman Dimitri Tsoumpas, Calgary's second overall pick in the 2008 draft, signed with the NFL's Miami Dolphins in the off-season. Pilon announced his retirement in April and then four offensive lineman did the same in less than a month starting May 30.

"We have a good nucleus of veterans and good young players to push the veterans."
John Hufnagel, Stamps' GM/coach

One of them was Jesse Newman, the third pick behind Tsoumpas, who left the team citing personal reasons.

Calgary is reasonably solid in the middle with Dan Comiskey at guard, Tim O'Neill in the centre and Jon Gott and Steve Myddelton battling for the starter's job at guard. Ben Archibald will play left tackle, but the right side is a question mark.

Import Harrison was signed to fill Pilon's absence, but was hampered in training camp by a knee injury he sustained in his first pre-season game. The Stampeders brought in Winnipeg native Zac Carlson on Friday after his release from Hamilton.

Prospects hope to take after fathers

FLAMES Maxwell Reinhart and John Ramage would each like to follow in the footsteps of their fathers.

The two prospects were among the six players selected by the Calgary Flames at the NHL draft on Saturday. Reinhart's father Paul and Ramage's dad Rob each spent time with the Flames during their playing days.

The good lineage was something that attracted the Flames to both players.

"There's a bloodline factor there," said GM Darryl Sutter.

Reinhart is a centre with the Western Hockey League's Kootenay Ice and Ramage is a defenceman for the University of Wisconsin.

England's steaming

Shock after goal not counted in loss to Germany

ROUND OF 16 RESULT

Germany 4 England 1

VS

Germany's latest World Cup victory over England will be remembered not for any of the brilliant goals, but for the one that didn't count.

Ask anyone — players, coaches, thousands of fans in the stadium and millions more watching on television — and there's little question that Frank Lampard put a shot in the net late in the first half that would have tied the score.

But referee Jorge Larrionda waved play on, and Germany rode two second-half goals by Thomas Mueller to a 4-1 victory yesterday.

The Germans are headed to the quarter-finals. The English are shaking their heads in disbelief.

"It's incredible," England coach Fabio Capello said.

"We played with five referees and they can't decide if it's a goal or no goal. The game was different after this goal. It was the mistake of the linesman and I think the referee because from the bench I saw the ball go (in)."

Germany coach Joachim Loew couldn't argue that point.

"What I saw on the television, this ball was behind the line," he said. "It must have been given as goal."

It wasn't.

"The goal was very important," Capello said. "We could have played a different style.

"We made some mistakes when they played the counterattack. The referee made bigger mistakes."

Larrionda and assistant referee Mauricio Espinosa were not made available to comment.

FIFA said in a statement that it "will not make any comments on decisions of the referee on the field of play."

Soccer's rules-making panel agreed last March not to pursue experiments with technology that could help referees judge goal-line decisions.

Germany went up on goals by Miroslav Klose and Lukas Podolski before England's Matthew Upson made it 2-1 in the 37th minute. Lampard's non-goal came a minute later.

After the ball landed across the line, it spun back into the arms of Germany goalkeeper Manuel Neuer. Capello initially celebrated what he thought was an equalizer by clenching his fists and shaking his arms.

But his face changed when he realized the goal had not been given.

Capello's future

- Steven Gerrard and Frank Lampard say they would like Fabio Capello to stay on as England manager despite the team's early exit from the World Cup.

From the fringes to centre stage

STARS Diego Maradona, Salvatore Schillaci, Zinedine Zidane. At almost every World Cup, there's one man whose burst of outstanding play captivates the globe.

At this year's competition in South Africa, the early candidates are Luis Suarez of Uruguay and Asamoah Gyan of Ghana. Both have led their teams to the quarter-finals and could be the ones to push their teammates all the way.

Uruguay had not been to the last eight of the World Cup since 1970, but Suarez took them there with his third goal of the tournament for a 2-1 win over South Korea.

"Fortunately, Suarez was able to score that spectacular winning goal," coach Oscar Tabarez said.

It is what makes the World Cup so special. Within a month, players can burst from the fringes of popular consciousness to centre stage.

KEVORK DJANSEZIAN/GETTY IMAGES

Ghana's Asamoah Gyan celebrates scoring his team's second goal Saturday against the United States.

Almost no one outside Italy knew of Schillaci before the 1990 World Cup but the reserve striker ended up the leading scorer with six goals, dragging the host nation to one penalty shootout from reaching the final in Rome.

This year, the race for the defining figure in a World Cup full of surprises is still wide open. Ajax's Suarez already has three goals and it will be tough to see a more thrilling one than his decider against South Korea.

He sidestepped two defenders in the driving rain and struck a right-foot shot from the edge of the area that curled just enough to beat the goalkeeper.

"Being young, I always dream of these types of moments," the 23-year-old forward said. "These moments we're experiencing are once in a lifetime."

It was the same for Gyan. He got the injury-time winner in a 2-1 victory over the United States, when he took a long ball from Andre Ayew over the defence, stayed upright despite a challenge and shot from 16 yards to send his country to the quarter-finals for the first time. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Disappointments

- The World Cup was seemingly set up for Cameroon's Samuel Eto'o to shine. It was the first time Africa hosted it, and banners bore his likeliness to market the event. Yet he was out when the first round was over.
- Chelsea's Didier Drogba also failed to come through for the Ivory Coast, although the broken right arm he suffered just ahead of the World Cup is a big factor.

Chile looks to break 10-year Brazil hex

ROUND OF 16 PREVIEW

Brazil vs. Chile

VS

Brazil and Chile won't have a lot of surprises when they play in the second round of the World Cup today.

The two South American countries have met dozens of times in recent years and already know what to expect from each other at Ellis Park Stadium.

Brazil has dominated the rivalry and arrives heavily favoured to advance, but this time the five-time champions will be facing a Chile team eager to show it can get past the round of 16 for the first time since its home tournament in 1962.

"We will have to play with intelligence," Brazil midfielder Gilberto Silva said yesterday. "We can't go after the win at all costs. We will need to be careful with their counterattacking, they know how to play and will try to attack, too."

Brazil hasn't lost to Chile in 10 years, a 3-0 result in a 2000 qualifier for the 2002 World Cup. It has won the past seven, outscoring Chile 26-3.

Learning doesn't stop just because school's out

EDUCATION It's summertime, and as the saying goes, the living's easy. But, according to Dr. Nick Whitehead, founder and CEO of Oxford Learning, the living might be too easy — especially where students' brains are concerned.

"While it's important for students to take a break and enjoy their summer, it's more important that students continue to keep their brains challenged all summer long," he says. "The brain continues to see connections, grow, and process information even during the summer."

The brain functions much like muscles in the body: When not used properly, it begins to deteriorate.

"Without continual exercise over the summer, students' brains can lose learning momentum, which can lead to trouble in the fall," says Dr. Whitehead. "The summer should give kids a breather, not cause them to become mentally passive."

According to Dr. Whitehead, maintaining learning momentum is an easy process. In as little as one or two hours of active learning per week and students can retain all the information that they learned during the school year.

Five tips for all the job hunters

If the word "networking" makes you want to curl into a ball, Diane Darling, author of The Networking Survival Guide — now in its second edition — says it doesn't need to be that way. Here are some tips everyone can implement immediately:

When you're looking for a job or aiming for a promotion, be aware that your profiles on social-networking sites will be perused.

Start from a position of strength

Too often people go out and try to randomly meet a bunch of new people. This is exhausting for many (especially for introverts) and often unproductive. Begin with your fan club. Who has helped you before, and vice versa?

Practice "hybrid networking"

It's most effective when you combine social networking and traditional networking (attending events, having a coffee, etc.). Like a hybrid car, there isn't a moment when the engine shuts off and restarts. If you don't like events, serve on a board and meet people that way. Networking is not a "one size fits all."

You never know

The "kid" in jeans may be a millionaire, and the person in the business suit may be broke. It's unlikely your first impression of someone is always right. Be open-minded.

> "Social-networking sites are researched before promotions are given or vendors are hired."

What goes online, stays online

This can be good or bad. If you're frustrated, don't say it online unless you're willing to have your grandmother or your kids read what you write.

Social-networking sites are researched before promotions are given or vendors are hired.

Be wise and be happy

Follow up

Most of your networking time and energy should be focused on following up with people. Even if they aren't spending money with you, they may be great referral sources or ambassadors.

Fans remember King of Pop

Michael Jackson fans the world over paused to remember the man they called the King of Pop with songs, dances and prayers on the first anniversary of his death, a day Jackson's father marked by filing a wrongful-death lawsuit against the doctor charged with giving his son a lethal dose of sedatives.

In Japan, hundreds of people lighted candles in Jackson's memory. In the Los Angeles suburb of Glendale, thousands filed silently through the gates of Forest Lawn Cemetery, where Jackson's body is entombed in the mausoleum. Some of them released white doves while others wept softly.

"He's been my idol all my life since I can remember. I feel like I haven't had closure," said Erick Dominguez, who travelled more than 100 kilometres to pay respects. As he spoke, the 37-year-old sales representative, his eyes hidden by sunglasses, began to weep.

GETTY IMAGES

Fans of the late pop star Michael Jackson pose with his star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame in Los Angeles over the weekend.

Several of Jackson's relatives visited the mausoleum, which was off limits to the public. Brother Tito shook hands with fans as he arrived, and brother Jermaine rolled down a window and waved as the family left in a fleet of luxury vehicles.

In Jackson's hometown of Gary, Ind., Jackson's mother, Katherine, unveiled a monument in the front yard of the modest home where her children grew up.

"This past year has been very hard on the family," she said. "If it wasn't for the help of all of you, we wouldn't have made it through."

Jackson died June 25, 2009, at age 50, just before he was to begin a comeback tour. Dr. Conrad Murray has pleaded not guilty to felony involuntary manslaughter in his death. Authorities say Murray provided the entertainer with a mix of sedatives — including the powerful anesthetic propofol — that killed him.

As Jackson fans everywhere grieved, the entertainer's father, Joe Jackson, filed suit against Murray in federal court in Los Angeles.

The complaint, which seeks more than $75,000, accuses Murray of professional negligence and contends the physician tried to conceal his administration of propofol after Jackson's death. Propofol is normally administered only in hospital settings.

Murray had been providing it to help him sleep after the physically grueling rehearsals for his comeback.

Murray attorney Charles Peckham said in a statement he expected his client's innocence to be "proven in a court of law."

Jackson's father is also fighting with his son's estate, seeking more than $15,000 a month. As Jackson's father went to court in Los Angeles, tributes to his son unfolded around the world.

One of the more raucous ones took place at Jackson's star in front of Grauman's Chinese Theatre on the Hollywood Walk of Fame. Fans blasted his music and danced energetically to the delight of tourists and passers-by on the crowded sidewalk. Many of the dancers were dressed as the King of Pop himself, wearing sequined gloves, black shirts and pants, white sox, black loafers and snappy looking Fedoras.

Farrah foundation keeps cancer battle alive

PEOPLE Farrah Fawcett's closest friends marked the first anniversary of her death by dedicating a cancer-research foundation in her name.

Alana Stewart, Ryan O'Neal, Tatum O'Neal and Redmond O'Neal were among guests at an intimate gathering Friday at the new offices of the Farrah Fawcett Foundation, which funds alternative cancer research and treatment methods and aims to improve the quality of life of those with the disease.

Fawcett, the Charlie's Angels star who detailed her battle with anal cancer in the 2009 documentary, Farrah's Story, died at 62 on June 25, 2009.

Stewart said Fawcett started her namesake foundation during her own struggle with cancer, and Stewart was determined to keep her friend's efforts alive.

"If I can help carry on Farrah's mission for the foundation, it's an honour for me," Stewart said. "I feel almost like she's a guardian angel watching over me, and I feel like she's smiling down on us and very happy that she died for a cause."

"She felt that she could help a lot of people and she could give a lot of people inspiration, courage and hope," Stewart continued. "That's why she did the documentary and that's why she started the foundation."

> "I feel like she's smiling down on us and very happy that she died for a cause." Alana Stewart

Ryan O'Neal said the first anniversary of Fawcett's death had been an emotional one for his family. Their 25-year-old son, Redmond, who has been dogged by drug problems and was jailed during his mother's final days, visited Fawcett's grave for the first time Friday.

Saved By The Bell star splits up with wife

Saved By the Bell graduate Mark-Paul Gosselaar is divorcing his wife of 14 years, Lisa Ann Russell, UsMagazine.com reports. The website quotes TMZ.com as saying the actor filed for divorce on June 18. METRO NEWS SERVICES

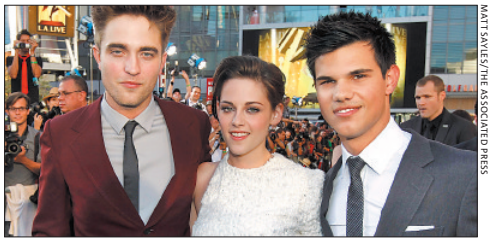
Twi-hards take over L.A.

Hundreds of fans camp out for Eclipse premiere

Monica Siegel and her two friends dropped a total of $2,500 and flew hundreds of kilometres to camp out for four days on a gritty patch of sidewalk in downtown Los Angeles. On Thursday, it was all worth it.

Siegel, 22, nabbed a spot near the red carpet to see — and swoon over — the heartthrob stars of The Twilight Saga: Eclipse as they arrived at the premiere of the latest instalment in the blockbuster vampire series.

"It's been a big part of my life. I start caring about the characters a lot, and when they make the movies, you start caring about the actors that portray the characters," she said after frantically colouring a fan poster. "The love story is what drew me in."



MATT SAYLES/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Siegel, a college sophomore, spent more than $1,000 on airfare, camping equipment and a motel to make it to California with her two friends, whom she met through a Twilight Facebook page. The motel, at $60 a night, was for showers only: Siegel and her pals have been sleeping and living in their brand-new tent since Sunday.

"I've never gone camping in my life," Siegel said. "We're paying for a hotel room we can't sleep in — but we can shower!"

Siegel, 21-year-old Amanda Willis, and 25-year-old Melissa Moorhead are just three among thousands of so-called Twi-hards who have clogged the downtown premiere venue since early this week, camping out in a specially-designated tent city for a fleeting glimpse of stars such as Robert Pattinson, Kristin Stewart and Taylor Lautner.

Up to 9,000 people were issued wristbands for a chance to see the film. At least 550 early birds, like Siegel, were ensured a spot along the red carpet, which was black for the occasion. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When in Twilight zone, pick a side

ANALYSIS Athens vs. Sparta. Red Sox vs. Yankees. Jennifer Aniston vs. Angelina Jolie.

Since the dawn of time, fierce rivalries have inspired fierce devotion, and Edward vs. Jacob in the Twilight saga is the latest, most fervent example.

Although fans of Stephenie Meyer's staggeringly popular series of novels know how it all ends — whether tormented teenager Bella ends up with vampire Edward or werewolf Jacob — somehow they still root as hard as ever for their favourite.

That obviously remains true as the hotly anticipated third film based on the books, The Twilight Saga: Eclipse, arrives in theatres Wednesday. And most align themselves firmly one way or the other: There is no grey area here.

But what does it say about people if they wear a T-shirt emblazoned with "Team Edward" or "Team Jacob" underneath their Forks High School hoodies?

Jeremy Clyman, who writes about film in his "Reel Therapy" blog on the Psychology Today website, says just wanting to belong to a group is a fundamental human desire. Which side you choose in Twilight, though, could stem from personal factors beyond merely thinking Robert Pattinson as Edward is cuter than Taylor Lautner as Jacob — or vice versa.

One of the main things that's exciting about Edward, Clyman said, is that he has a secret: He's a vampire. And that might allow audience members with secrets of their own to identify with him. "The other appealing thing is the character strength that defines him, his self-control," Clyman explained.

Meanwhile, Clyman thinks of the more adventurous and muscular Jacob "as the underdog because when it comes to romantic affection for Bella, to competing for Bella, he's in the underdog slot the whole time," Clyman said. "She wants to spend time with Edward and Jacob's stuck in the friend zone."

Then there are people like Rosemary Brennan of Los Angeles, a writer for Glamour.com, who says: "More than anything, I'm Team Not Bella. She just seems so manipulative. I think because people are so tied to Edward or Jacob, their dislike of Bella is even stronger." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The winner is ...

- A Google search for "Team Edward" yields more than 33.4 million hits compared to 15.2 million for "Team Jacob." On Facebook, about 90,000 people "like" the Team Edward page versus about 52,000 for the Team Jacob page. And in an online poll at the Internet Movie Database (IMDb.com), Edward fans have been outnumbering Jacob fans by about a 2-to-1 ratio.

The originals strike back

Amidst slew of sequels, new ideas ready to make mark

It's summertime at the movies, the season of getting-to-know-you-all-over-again as audiences reacquaint themselves with old screen pals such as Woody and Buzz Lightyear, Iron Man, Shrek and that Karate Kid.

Angelina Jolie stars in Salt.

Yet new ideas occasionally pop up even in Hollywood, the place that thrives on sequels, remakes, spinoffs and adaptations based on best-selling novels, TV shows, comic books or toys.

Among this summer's handful of original stories are Tom Cruise's Knight and Day, Angelina Jolie's Salt and Leonardo DiCaprio's Inception, from The Dark Knight director Christopher Nolan.

With old standbys such as Sex and the City 2, Robin Hood and The A-Team falling short of box-office expectations, fresh concepts play a bigger role in determining the success of Hollywood's summer.

Inception in particular has the industry and fans captivated, coming from a filmmaker with a track record for blockbuster entertainment that's also bold and smart.

Starring DiCaprio as a man using technology to sneak into people's dreams and steal their ideas, Inception arrives in theatres July 17 with the best buzz for an original story since James Cameron's Avatar last December.

At $2.7 billion worldwide, Avatar leads the box-office charts, hurtling past Harry Potter, Spider-Man and other franchise adaptations. "I would like to say we were very encouraged by the success of Avatar," Nolan said with a big laugh.

For many fans, Avatar was as groundbreaking a movie experience as one of the prime cinema adventures of Nolan's boyhood, Star Wars.

"Ever since I saw that film, whether I knew it or not, my ambition has been to give the audience that kind of experience," Nolan continued. "To create a world that they hadn't expected before and hadn't seen before and let them lose themselves in it."

So why does Hollywood keep coming back to the same old things? Simple. It pays better.

Most of the movies that draw colossal audiences are based on something that existed before. Familiarity sometimes can breed contempt as audiences tire of characters, but it's generally easier to get fans to buy tickets for the latest in a continuing saga.

"It really is up to the audience and critics. A lot of people jump on Hollywood for that, but the truth is, if they'll come, we'll make them," said producer Lorenzo di Bonaventura, whose credits include Transformers flicks and Jolie's upcoming spy thriller Salt.

Minogue parts with dress to back AIDS charity

Minogue

CHARITY Kylie Minogue proved that in the name of charity, she's capable of selling the shirt off her back.

The petite Australian pop star auctioned off her black halter dress at a swanky AIDS benefit Friday night on the margins of Paris' menswear week.

The Jean Paul Gaultier number, which bristled with little spikes, fetched $24,770 US.

Other lots included a lambskin vest by California-born designer Rick Owens and a 1980 photograph by Robert Mapplethorpe titled Leather Crotch.

The soiree raised $180,000 for the American Foundation for AIDS Research (amfAR), a non-profit organization that supports HIV/AIDS research.

Held in Chez Maxim's restaurant and club in central Paris, the dinner auction attracted top names in the French fashion scene, including underwear designer Chantal Thomass, model Mark Vanderloo and Gaultier — the one-time enfant terrible who gave the world Madonna's pointy cone bra. No changes planned after stage collapse

Alberta does not plan to toughen its building code for outdoor stages as a result of the fatal collapse of the main platform last summer at the Big Valley Jamboree country music festival.

JOHN ULAN/THE CANADIAN PRESS

The main stage at the Big Valley Jamboree in Camrose, Alta., collapsed last year killing one person, injuring 75 others.

But the government says it will have inspectors on hand when the stage is built for next month's jamboree in Camrose, southeast of Edmonton, and adds it is working to establish a permit system for stages at major events.

One person died and 75 others were injured Aug. 1 when a powerful wind ripped through the popular festival with only a minute's warning and caused the main stage to crumble as thousands of spectators fled.

One of two reports ordered by the province into what happened says the high winds far exceeded what the building was required to handle. But it also says the wreckage was so extensive that experts could not determine what actually caused the heavy, portable stage to collapse.

"The major finding was that stage structure was designed and installed according to the building code. There were no design errors in the design of the system," said Chris Salvian, chief building administrator for Alberta's Municipal Affairs Department.

"From our perspective, we will be taking no further action."

A separate investigation by Alberta Occupational Health and Safety into how the stage was assembled and whether the jamboree was a safe worksite is almost complete, but may not be finished until after the summer festival season.

Tickets are selling fast for this year's jamboree, which is scheduled to begin July 29. The four-day event is expected to attract more than 20,000 fans a day, who will be eager to see such artists as Keith Urban and Martina McBride.

Superman to tour America

COMICS The Man of Steel will hoof it across America to reconnect with everyday people in a story that will feature actual cities, towns and neighbourhoods submitted by readers.

Superman, one of DC Comics' flagship fictional heroes, begins his journey next month in Philadelphia, where he'll embark on a 12-issue, cross-country walk — no flying, thank you — through Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon and Washington. Not on the travel itinerary is a swing through the Deep South.

Dan DiDio, DC's co-publisher, told The Associated Press Wednesday that the Krypton-born, Kansas-bred hero had lost touch "with the people he grew up with, his adopted home on Earth" and he'll "take a walk across America to reconnect."

In a bid to keep the story arc fresh in the age of instant communication and social media, readers of the comic who live within 80 kilometres of the cities of Chicago, Des Moines,

Denver, Salt Lake City, Las Vegas, Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle can submit essays of up 1,000 words touting why their city or neighbourhood should be included in the story titled Grounded" DC will select nine winners.

DiDio said DC is "looking to hear what people have to say, how the character affected their lives" and, he added, "more importantly, what the character means to them."

The story, scripted by veteran film, television and comic writer J. Michael Straczynski, whose previous work includes DC's The Red Circle books and Marvel's Thor and Fantastic Four, has its roots in the current issue, No. 700.

In it, Superman asks The Flash whether he actually sees the people he's protecting as he barrels across the country at supersonic speeds.

"When I'm running flat-out, I see what I figure you see when you're flying up there at several bazillion times the speed of sound," the speedster replies. "I see a blur. Unless I make an effort to see the details."

Superman's decidedly slower-than-a-speeding-bullet walkabout officially starts with issue 701, which goes on sale next month, and lasts through issue 712.

Glenn Gould: Hereafter
Call it "one long film about Glenn Gould." Filmmaker Bruno Monsaingeon, a musician himself and a longtime friend of Gould's, paints a charming portrait of the celebrated, eccentric pianist in this 2005 documentary. He interweaves footage of Gould on and off the concert stage with the stories of five ordinary people whose lives were touched by his music. 7 PM on BRAVO

CSI: Miami
Horatio and his team have tackled some out-of-this-world and even unearthly cases in the course of their careers, but their challenge in "Miami, We Have a Problem" may top them all, as they investigate the case of a man who was murdered in outer space. Emily Procter also stars. 8:01 PM on CFCN; 11:01 PM on KREM

Two and a Half Men
After impetuously running off to Las Vegas, Charlie (Charlie Sheen) returns with a new wife (guest star Katy Mixon, "Eastbound and Down") who definitely isn't Chelsea (Jennifer Taylor) in "Tinkle Like a Princess." Jon Cryer, Angus T. Jones and Holland Taylor also star. 10 PM on CFCN KREM

Career perspective for Fox

Megan Fox is doing her best to have some perspective on her career. "I'm totally aware that I've never given anyone a reason to praise me for my acting talents," she says, according to the Sun. METRO NEWS SERVICES

GLOVE FETCHES ALMOST TWO HUNDRED GRAND! Some fans of Michael Jackson celebrated the singer on the anniversary of his death by snatching up some of his personal property at a Las Vegas auction, including the Swarovski-crystal-studded glove Jackson wore on a 1984 tour, which fetched $190,000, according to the Las Vegas Sun. Mel's ex gets restraining order

JUST ANOTHER DAY IN HOLLYWOOD: BREAKUP, BITTERNESS AND THE INEVITABLE RESTRAINING ORDER Oksana Grigorieva, Mel Gibson's ex-girlfriend — and the mother of his youngest child — has reportedly obtained a restraining order prohibiting him from coming within 100 yards of her, according to TMZ.

Sources say the action stems from a violent confrontation between the two in January, three months before they announced their split.

"She tried to protect his reputation, despite her fears of him and his verbal and physical abuse," a source says.

"She regrets having believed in his empty promises to obtain professional help to control his violent nature." Gibson reps deny he got violent with Grigorieva, whose reps will only say, "The true facts will be brought out in a court of law."

Cyrus looking forward to 18

YES, EVERY TEENAGER ANTICIPATES THE DAY THEY GET TO MOVE INTO THEIR MULTI-MILLION DOLLAR MANSION Miley Cyrus is itching to turn 18, because it means she'll be able to move into her $3.4 million home, according to Exposay.

"I think I worked really hard to be able to have a place that is purely my environment and exactly the way I envision — kind of like a serene, tranquil place that can just be my space," the 17-year-old singer says.

As for college, Cyrus says it isn't part of her plan right now.

"My sister went to college for two years and then decided she wants to be a musician and now she is a musician," she says. "I just already know what I want to do and if there is ever a time where I want to go back, I can."

Woods divorce is a done deal

FINALLY SOMETHING THE TWO CAN AGREE ON! Tiger Woods' divorce from Elin Nordegren is pretty much a done deal, sources tell Radar Online.

"They've agreed on all the major points," a source says.

"It's all been worked out privately. Both Tiger and Elin are very close to finishing the negotiations and filing and signing the paperwork."

Metro Recipe of the Day

Crab and Grapefruit Salad

INGREDIENTS:
4 grapefruits
2 tbsp light mayonnaise
1 tbsp finely chopped mango chutney
2 tsp Dijon mustard
1 tsp sesame oil
Salt to taste
1/4 tsp pepper
375 g lump crabmeat, cartilage removed
2 cups watercress, tough stems trimmed
1 Belgian endive, cut crosswise into 1 cm-wide strips
1 head Bibb lettuce, separated into leaves

METHOD:
1. With small paring knife, peel grapefruits. Separate grapefruit sections from membranes over bowl; reserve any juice that collects in bowl.

2. In medium bowl, whisk together mayonnaise, chutney, mustard, sesame oil, salt, pepper and 3 tbsp reserved grapefruit juice.

3. Add crabmeat, tossing to combine. Add watercress, endive and grapefruit sections; toss. Serve salad on bed of Bibb lettuce.

ARIES ♈
MARCH 21-APRIL 20
You have courage. You have confidence. You have clarity of vision. The higher you aim the more you will accomplish this week.

TAURUS ♉
APRIL 21-MAY 21
Don't sit around thinking about what might have been — get out into the world and do something special.

GEMINI ♊
MAY 22-JUNE 21
You may not much trust a particular person but what they have to tell you today is important — and deep down you know it is true.

CANCER ♋
JUNE 22-JULY 22
Clear your mind of irrelevant details and start moving forward again. Be brave, be bold and above all be ready to act when opportunity comes knocking.

LEO ♌
JULY 23-AUG 23
Jupiter in your fellow Fire sign of Aries makes it impossible for you to fail (almost), so the more risks you take this coming week the more you could accomplish.

VIRGO ♍
AUG 24-SEPT 22
Today you can quite easily charm your way past other people's defenses. Say nice things and you'll get even more nice things in return.

LIBRA ♎
SEPT 23-OCT 23
Only you know how much effort you have put into your work. You've trumped everyone's expectations, so reward yourself with a vacation.

SCORPIO ♏
OCT 24-NOV 22
Focus on the important tasks that have to be finished over the next few days and don't let other people side-track you with their personal problems.

SAGITTARIUS ♐
NOV 23-DEC 21
Over the next few days the higher you aim the more likely it is you will succeed, so don't hold back — show the world what real talent looks like.

CAPRICORN ♑
DEC 22-JAN 20
Major changes are possible, but you must be the one who makes the first move. Sit down with the one you love and talk through any problems you might have.

AQUARIUS ♒
JAN 21-FEB 18
If you need to open up a bit about your thoughts and feelings now is the time because you are guaranteed a positive response.

PISCES ♓
FEB 19-MARCH 20
A whole new range of possibilities will be revealed and all you have to do is decide which one you are going to devote yourself to.

This day in history

1838: The coronation of Victoria of the United Kingdom.
1914: Franz Ferdinand, Archduke of Austria and his wife Sophie are assassinated in Sarajevo by young Serbian nationalist Gavrilo Princip, which sparked the start of World War I.
1950: Seoul is captured by troops from North Korea
1967: Israel annexes East Jerusalem.
1997: Mike Tyson vs Evander Holyfield II — Tyson is disqualified in the 3rd round for biting a piece from Holyfield's ear.
